JACOB ECKERT
FINED $1,000 IN
STATE LINE RAID

Probate Judge Riddle
Metes Out Maximum Penalty.

FIRST OFFENSE

Leetonia Man Nabbed;
Salem Woman Pays
$500.

Jacob Eckert, arrested yesterday afternoon by Sheriff William J. Barlow, Deputies Elliott, Haroff and Ellis, in a clean-up campaign at "Hell's Half Acre" near the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line, paid a fine of $1,000 today on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor and was freed following a hearing before Probate Judge Lodge Riddle in Lisbon.

It was Eckert's first offense but, nevertheless, he was fined the limit as a result of county authorities' determination to "mop up" the purported state line rendezvous.

Columbiana county forces were aided in the raid on Eckert's home by Pennsylvania state troopers and the Beaver county sheriff's office. They seized 50 gallons of whisky and destroyed several cases of beer. Louis Bush, of Leetonia, arrested by Sheriff Barlow and Haroff on charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, is held for arraignment Monday.

Mary Buja, Salem, for whom Marysville commitment papers had been issued, was released last night when her fine of $500, assessed following conviction on a liquor charge, was paid by Steve Cosgara, Salem.

Today

Never Trifle With Russia.
Disarm? Not Yet.
Dr. Mayo Repeats Voltaire.
A Real Ghost?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WHEN Russia threatened China before the peace dove fluttered down, some "white Russians," supporters of the old czarist system, decided to put the czars back on the throne. They chose the wrong moment. Now Moscow's government, in few words, announces the capture and execution of 16 of them.

It is not wise to trifle with the Bolshevik government.

FRANK B. Kellogg, rejoicing, as he well may, in the good work of his peace pact, thinks the "next natural step" will be disarmament. That step is a long way off.

British, American and other nations that really want peace will, if wise, maintain their ability to enforce peace if necessary. But they need not squander billions competing unnecessarily with each other.

OUR distinguished Dr. Mayo says prohibition works well.

"The great middle class in America is no longer drinking," says he. "The class at the top and the dregs at the bottom are still at it."

That reminds you of Voltaire's description of the English people. "Like their own beer, dregs at the bottom, froth at the top, excellent between."

UNCLE SAM'S government is getting along harmoniously with Britain's Labor government.

Prime Minister MacDonald stops cruisers and submarines building.

President Hoover stops work on three cruisers in the government navy yards.

FORTUNATELY, this time, it only means junking blue prints, not such new and costly battleships as were destroyed after the Washington conference.

THE St. Louis almanac were still up when this was written and past 300 hours continuous flight. One of them smokes two cigars, the other smokes two packages of cigarette a day.

They have no intention of coming down, as long as their engine continues to hold out and they get $100 each for every hour above the record that they stay up. To be in business for yourself is stimulating, on the ground or in the air.

THERE isn't much real money in America; only about $80 for every man, woman and child, not enough for the first payment on the automobile that every man and woman and child, old enough, should have. But fortunately there is much excellent credit.

Colonel Peter O. Knight, of Tampa, Florida, connected with eight banks, all sound and thriving, reminds you that the United States has only eight billions, six hundred millions of currency. It takes eleven billions, two hundred millions to pay taxes alone, federal, state, local.

DELAWARE MAN
HELD WHEN DRY
AGENTS ARE SHOT

David Eskridge, 22,
Faces Charges in Wilmington.

FEDERAL INQUIRY

Gun Fight Staged at Midnight Near Laurel.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 27.—(INS)—Charged with shooting with intent to kill, illegal manufacture of liquor and possession of intoxicating liquor, David A. Eskridge, 22, of Seaford, Del., member of an old Delaware family, was held in $7,500 bail for court today following the wounding of two dry agents.

The shooting of the agents took place shortly before midnight near Laurel, Del., and a few hours later Eskridge was brought here and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Albert Polk.

The two agents, Elmer Riggins, of Laurel, and Irwin Windsor, of Hurlock, Md., are in the Laurel hospital suffering from shotgun wounds. Both will recover, physicians say. Riggins was shot in the right shoulder and Windsor in the right leg.

Six agents from the prohibition office at Dover had lain in wait for several hours in the pine woods at a spot near Blades, Del., when Eskridge appeared to tend a 55-gallon still. Four of the agents turned their flashlights on him while Riggins and Windsor approached. Firing blindly twice, Eskridge disabled the two men.

The others were uninjured and Henry Thompson knocked Eskridge unconscious with a blow to the jaw. His shotgun, several gallons of mash and liquor were seized and the wounded men were rushed to the hospital.

Attorneys say the charge of manufacturing liquor brings the prisoner under the drastic provisions of the Jones law if convicted. The ball fixed was the heaviest ever set in a liquor case in the state.

FIREMAN BURNED
FIGHTING BLAZE

COLUMBUS, O., July 27.—(INS)—A fireman is today recovering from the effects of burns which he sustained last night in fighting a fire at a residence here, during which an 18-year-old youth was overcome by smoke.

David Moore, 18, was the smoke victim when he was helping to drag furniture from the smoke-filled, blazing home of David Reese.

Fire Chief C. E. Barkow suffered burns about his hands while fighting the fire.

DETROIT, July 27.—(INS)—"Taken for a ride" and shot to death by hostile gangsters, the bullet-riddled body of Irving Shapiro was contemptuously tossed from an automobile here early today.

Police say Shapiro was a member of the notorious "Purple Cleaners" and of Dyer's Gang, four members of which were convicted recently of conspiracy to violate prohibition laws.

The "Purples" had been levying tribute on saloons and bootleggers, police say, and Shapiro is believed to have been murdered, either by bootleggers or by members of his own gang who believed him a "stool pigeon."

Pottery City

With Apologies to O. O. McIntyre

During the last three months there have been exactly 29 persons from East Liverpool who have purchased through tickets for Los Angeles, Calif., and made the trip by bus to the Pacific Coast," asserted Harry Fleming, who is in charge of the bus terminal at Fifth and Market streets. "And of the 29 fully one-half of them were women," he explained. "The majority of them have taken the southern route, they electing to go by way of El Paso, Tex. Just now, however, there is a demand by some for the more northern way which takes passengers through Salt Lake City, Utah."

He said there are daily passengers leaving East Liverpool by bus for New York City.

"And there is an average of three persons a day leaving East Liverpool for Detroit, Mich., he said. "We have sold tickets for Shreveport and New Orleans, La."

Because of infringement upon the interstate laws persons leaving for points in Ohio must perforce travel in local busses. It is possible that changes in these laws may permit the carrying of local passengers by interstate busses. Efforts to that end are now being made.

Fleming has had charge of the bus passenger service since last December. He also looks after the local traveling to Lisbon, Youngstown and Canton.

The demands for these tickets and the work incident to their disposal has become so increased that he has delegated the duties thereto to Miss Nellie Franzetta.

What is regarded as an unprecedented event in the organization was the presentation by a father to his son of the jewel of the past Commander of Pilgrim No. 55, Knights Templar. The retiring commander was Walter Ashbaugh. To his surprise when the time for the formal presentation of the emblem was reached it was his own father, Charles C. Ashbaugh, himself a member of the commandery, who made the speech.

Lois Moran and Warner Baxter in "Behind That Curtain" Fox Movietone All-Talking Feature.

This thrilling romantic mystery, directed by Irving Cummings with Warner Baxter, Lois Moran and Gilbert Emery in the leading roles, is said to present to sight and hearing such strikingly picturesque backgrounds as London streets, India's bazaars and villages, the sweep of the Persian desert and San Francisco's Chinatown, with all of their characteristic sounds and native dialects. Beginning with a mysterious murder in a London barrister's office, the action swings to India, where the tortured wife of a derelict, whom she suspects of the crime, flees from him to her first love—and accompanies him on a caravan trip across the desert. At the Ceramic theater, three days starting Monday.

Cleaning Up State Line

A campaign to clean up what is known as "Hell's Half Acre," recognized as a bootleggers' rendezvous, at the state line, was launched yesterday when Ohio and Pennsylvania raiders co-operated in the destruction of bottled beer and seizure of whisky and arrest of a suspect.

Thirteen deputies and state policemen, directed by the sheriffs of Columbiana county, O., and Beaver county, Pa., swooped down upon the zone which for two or three years has been a troublesome spot for municipal as well as county authorities. And despite the "lookout" system which, according to police, long has been maintained there to warn operators of illicit places in the event of an attack by law enforcement officers, the raid was a success.

The innocence or guilt of the suspect will be determined at a hearing which probably will be held today or tomorrow, but irrespective of the court's decision the raid should serve as a warning to prohibition law violators who have established themselves in that section.

Repeated efforts during the last few years have been made by East Liverpool police to ferret out bootleggers in the Half Acre. Arrests have been made, both by municipal and county authorities, but there has been little let-up in law defiance.

Conditions prevailing there in the past gave the district its name. At least one murder has occurred, while there have been not infrequent fights. Motorists often have been insulted by hangerson at the suspected liquor camps, and as a rule the so-called "big game" fled across the line, either from Ohio to Pennsylvania or vice versa, when raiders approached, because the squads worked as state units instead of co-operating.

One raid, however, will not clean up "Hell's Half Acre." Repeated attacks should be the rule, for law violators, according to reports, are established in more than one section of the territory along Beaver creek.

For The Safety of Valuables

A safety deposit box should be purely what its name implies, a box in which valuables may be deposited and kept in safety, and if loss occurs to the renter of such a box through the negligence of the officials or employees of the bank or other institution from which it is rented, such institution is responsible for the loss sustained.

Such in effect, is the law as enunciated by Judge A. W. Agler, of the Stark county common pleas court, in overruling a motion by the City Savings Bank and Trust company, of Alliance, in a proceeding in which the plaintiffs, William Pluchel and others, had been rendered a verdict for $12,000.

The case is a decidedly peculiar one. The testimony showed that Pluchel had rented the box in question and placed therein several packages of money amounting in all to $12,000, which later disappeared. It was brought out that an assistant cashier, who is greatly interested in old coins and has a reputation in his community as an authority on numismatics, had ordered a set of duplicate keys to the Pluchel box, intending at some time to inspect its contents to satisfy his curiosity, but he denied that he had ever used the keys or that he had ever sought to gain access to the box.

The trial of the matter resulted in a verdict for $12,000, as stated, the full amount of the plaintiff's claim, and the motion for a new trial was overruled as herein set out.

The decision should interest officials of financial institutions and their box patrons alike, and it serves as notice to all such institutions that there should be a distinct understanding between them and the manufacturers of such safety deposit boxes, looking to the safeguarding of their own interests by limiting to a very few the right to secure duplicate keys by identifying those whose orders for keys should be recognized.

Latest Apologist

Taking a London cable at its face value, Benjamin C. Marsh, of Washington, is the latest American apologist to turn up in the British metropolis and toady for the favor of the people of Britain.

Speaking before the anti-imperialist conference there, a few mornings since, this particular victim of subservency declared that the United States has embarked with the election of President Hoover on a policy of world financial and economic domination.

"While most of the rest of the world was fighting for world trade and commercial supremacy from 1914 to 1917," he went on to say, "our ruling classes, whose capital was Wall street, not Washington, were figuring out with a cold blooded Christian calculation on which horse to put our money."

"Unlike the Earl of Beaconsfield in the Crimean war, we picked the right horse after it was a sure winner and continued to ride it as both winner and loser."

The case of Mr. Marsh, said as it is, would not be worthy of notice were he not one of a list of poor unfortunates who labor under the delusion that they may curry favor with Europeans by traducing the home land they so signally disgrace. In some European lands they may accomplish their purpose, but hardly in Great Britain, and especially in England. The English are a patriotic people, full of love of country, and such a people can not do other than despise those of other lands who speak disparagingly of the lands from which they come. It is indeed hard to understand how American apologists, who would seek to misrepresent our course in the World war or the American policies of today, can so fearfully misjudge a people so proud of country as the English by assuming that they look with favor upon other nations who come to them fawning with flattery upon their lips for their own lands.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.—An international lawsuit, echoing war days, is among the items occupying the attention of the legal lights of the department of state just now. It is a case brought by the Netherlands government against the United States government.

Shortly before the United States entered the war, the aspect of military affairs on the western front was a very dark one for the Allies. Belgium was in German hands and a large section of northeastern France. For a time it seemed inevitable that the Netherlands would be drawn in although it was eager to remain neutral. It would, of course, have come in on the side of the Allies. Even before the war, not much love was lost between the Dutch and the Germans.

The Netherlands would not have been a very important factor in the military situation so far as its army was concerned because it is a small kingdom at best. Its soldiery, of course, is noted for valor but it did not have many soldiers. However, its entry into the war on the side of the Allies would have given England a landing place for troops close to German territory. Also, many German troops would necessarily have been diverted from the French front to invade this country.

In such a state of affairs, the Netherlands government thought it wise to strengthen its army. The Queen's government wished to have her army fully prepared if war did eventuate. In any event, such a strengthening would show Germany that Holland's neutrality must be respected and no liberties taken unless the Germans wanted a declaration of war.

Therefore, approximately $5,000,000 worth of arms and ammunition was contracted for in the United States, then also a neutral. That was in 1916. The contracts were accepted and manufacture commenced.

In April, 1917, the United States declared war on Germany. Just about that time the Dutch munitions were ready and were at shipside at Hoboken, ready for export to the Netherlands. But the American government swooped down and seized all the consignments. Munitions were needed for our own troops and those of our Allies already in the war. It was not deemed expedient to permit a shipment to go to a neutral in such an emergency.

Assurances, of course, were speedily sent to Holland that full payment would be made for the seized munitions. The Dutch government, of course, wanted its munitions but in the circumstances there was nothing to do.

With the end of the war, negotiations were set on foot for settlement of the claim of the Netherlands for the seized munitions. This was the genesis of the present lawsuit. It appears that at the time the contract was awarded, the American dollar was depreciated in Holland. It was above par in nearly all other European countries. But Holland, Switzerland, and the Scandinavian countries were exceptions and there the dollar was under par. Holland had agreed to pay so many florins for the munitions. When the time for settlement came, the United States was willing to pay in dollars at par of exchange. This meant a loss of something like $1,500,000 florins to the Dutch on account of the difference in exchange at the date of the contract.

An interesting case in point which the Dutch are urging as a precedent has to do with a contract made with Italian interests, during the war, for the construction of airplanes for Liberty motors. An Italian company owned a type of plane which engineers thought especially adapted to carry the Liberty motor and an agreement was entered into for the Italians to come here and build the planes. This was done. When the time came for payment the United States, finding the Italian lira greatly depreciated, insisted upon paying in lire.

The argument being used before the secretary of state in the instant Dutch case is that the United States can not play fast and loose with foreign countries in this manner. The Italian case shows that the American government insisted upon paying in lire because a dollar would buy a great many lire, that unit being below par. In the Dutch case, dollar payment is insisted upon by the United States because at the time the contract was made the dollar would buy less than normal par in florins.

There are many precedents in connection with such cases in the record of international disputes between various countries. That the United States ultimately will lose the Dutch case seems likely because the general rule laid down in international law is that where there has been such a seizure, the nation which has taken the goods must make good the precise value and is not permitted to juggle exchanges.

The Dutch government, in its case, is going some what further in that it not only wants a settlement on a florin basis but also wants damages. Had the munitions been left in Dutch hands, that government could have sold them at a tremendous profit but was stopped from doing so by the American seizure.

Q. When was a belt first considered a symbol of championship in boxing? V. N.
 A. The use of a belt as an emblem of championship is of very ancient origin, dating back at least to the time of the siege of Troy. Homer in describing the game at the funeral of Patroclus mentions a belt in this connection.

A. The term rumble seat was first applied to the seat the rumble seat? M. L. E.

A. The term rumble seat was first applied to the seat in a carriage behind the body of the carriage, which was provided for servants. Doubtless it was called this because of the continuous low heavy noise which was made by a carriage or wagon as it rolled over the road.

Q. Is aluminum the lightest of metals? If not, what is? F. M. V.

A. Lithium is said to be the lightest of metals, having a specific gravity of 0.59. There are eight metals between this and aluminum, which has a specific gravity of 2.6. Therefore, aluminum may be said to rank tenth.

Q. What is the origin of the round robin? A. D. B.
 A. Boswell traced it to a sailors' custom followed when they entered into a conspiracy so as not to let it be known who put his name first or last to the paper.

Q. What is meant by chirurgery? H. A. H.
 A. It means surgical practices.

Responsibility's Reward.

As a wage earner you envy the man in business.

You compare your income with his. You believe that you would be much happier if you could take in as much money as he does over his counters.

You wonder why he finds it necessary to look so serious-minded while you with your little bit can feel so light-hearted.

But if you could carry into business the same spirit you show now you would be a failure.

Business is a serious matter that becomes more pronounced as competition increases and profits are figured on a closer basis.

You demand that you have comparative freedom of thought and little demand upon your time outside working hours.

You want without thought what others have gained by vigilance and constant thought along their lines.

If you were not so care-free and lacking in responsibilities you might have a larger income.

Ritzy Rosalie

Dame Fashion has come to be a great match-maker, it seems. Perhaps it will come to pass that one shall be ashamed to drive up in front of one's home unless the new car matches the exterior of the domicile. At any rate, to go on with the story, Rosalie hates to lose a match-race by a mere neck, so she is wearing a multi-colored bead necklace mettle to harmonize with her printed frocks. It is a long necklace and is worn twice around the throat. And speaking of harmonizing and match-making, the grained calf which was recently depicted in this column and which resembled fox fur in the various colors and design has been extended to shoes. It formerly was only used on handbags, to further the ensemble idea, but the advance fall notes have it in footwear. Copyright, 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—The perpetual civic cheering here has the lustiness of a Yale-Harvard football game. Anyone will slam down his desk at any time to test his lungs for anything adding a new laurel to the municipal glory. They never tire of professional barking.

To me, the Breakfast Club is a shining example of the way the city lets go in pent up enthusiasm. All celebrities are invited to the expensive clubhouse, a good drive from town. And as a rule the most prominent citizens will let themselves out of bed to attend.

The club is exploited by a gentleman named Maurice Diamond who, I understand, hails from Brooklyn. He plots them through all sorts of absurd rituals and the quest of honor is blundered and asked to hold his hand in a symbolic platter of ham and eggs and recite some foolish fan-fare.

They sing songs with arms around each other's neck while swaying to and fro in brotherly affection. It is an incredible display of Rabbity and I cannot believe most of them do not suffer the ridiculous rigamarole with tongues in their cheeks.

There are hundreds of luncheons daily where people gather with the sole purpose of shouting the supreme municipal virtues. It is an angle of this astounding city that no one seems able to explain. It needs no such chin-chin for it expands by leaps and bounds.

Yet it becomes as natural as breathing. The opening of a new subdivision takes on all the hoopla of a New York celebration to Lindbergh. Bands play, aeroplanes radio from overhead, delegations of visiting mayors indulge in forensic fancies and people take box lunches and stay all day.

The Los Angeleno does not object to kidding about such things. He knows it looks a little silly to the outsider. You can have your joke and he will have his. But turn your head and he will sneak off and you'll find him around the corner ringing the welken with a fresh flock of cheers.

The Black Belt is called "White Broadway." It stretches for several miles along Central Avenue and seems a rapid fire succession of pool halls, restaurants, fried catfish stands, lurid movies and other institutions purely for the gaudies of the denizens.

Those accustomed to the interesting pallor of ladies down East receive quite a start when they see the war-path Indian rouge that smears so many cheeks. It suggests a house afire. Still, as someone observed, women can't go wan forever.

The barbecue flourishes along the Los Angeles roadside. Every whip stich or so they flaunt gaudy signs that whole meats are being roasted before an open fire. And after a day in the open, almost anyone can tear a half a pig to tatters.

Along the beaches and in innumerable little garden-spots, parks and such are community cooking furnaces and dining tables. It is a weekly custom in thousands of homes for the family to motor out some place, cook their meal and eat in the open. Due to weather conditions—the Chamber of Commerce speaking—this is possible throughout the entire year.

There are bathing addicts who have never missed a swim daily for years. They are burned the black of a Hindu, and sometimes their hair is bleached white, creating almost a dime museum effect. Many housewives wear bathing costumes all day long, even while doing the cooking. And some of the suits wouldn't make a good

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

It is too bad for any one of us to feel that disease is inevitable. Death is inevitable and by one cause or another each of us will be swept into eternity. But there are some diseases, and common diseases at that, that we have and really no business to have.

For instance, there is "Summer diarrhoea." "Dysentery," "flux"—it makes no difference what you call it, this ailment is all too common. Why have it at all?

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, Summer diarrhoea is the direct result of eating improper or contaminated food. While all the life forces may be lower in excessively hot weather, there could be no such disturbances of digestion without taking the wrong things into the stomach.

No matter how well food is produced and how carefully it is handled, there is sure to be some contact with germs or bacteria. Fortunately most of these organisms are friendly ones. Indeed, they may be forms of life that are quite essential to our welfare.

On the other hand, too many of them are anything but friendly. They are real enemies, capable of making us very sick.

But even if they are dangerous when taken into our bodies in large numbers, we are strong enough to resist them if their numbers are not too great. It is when the food is submitted to wrong conditions after it is purchased, that the danger becomes a real menace to health.

Unless the perishable foods are kept all the time at a temperature of fifty degrees or less any germs that may be present will multiply.

In twenty-four hours a few germs will become a billion.

Any perishable food, you see, may be changed from something valuable to health to something positively dangerous. It is not the food, of course, but the germ life and any poisons devoted within it that make it capable of causing serious illness.

Among the other possible effects of heat upon the food is the development of germs that cause diarrhoea. Summer dysentery is what happens to one who has eaten food contaminated in this manner.

Milk and meat, vegetables and fruits, everything that is uncanned or unprotected by its own natural coverings, may speedily spoil. Even though the senses of taste and smell may not reveal it, there may be such spoilage, such germ growth, as to make the food unfit for human use.

If you refuse to eat in doubtful places and take pains properly to refrigerate the foods in your own home you are reasonably safe. The certainty of good health is promoted by buying nothing except sound, fresh raw foods.

W. B. Q.—What do you advise as an eyewash?

Tired of Prosperity

Recent discussions of the possibility of tax reduction have served incidentally to emphasize the fact that the incomes of both state and federal governments have been swollen by heavy tax collections on stock market profits. The much-abused stock market has been helping to reduce the national debt, to lighten the burden of taxation and to provide extensive public improvements. Critics of the market must recognize this clear cut service.

Another benefit provided by the bull market is that conferred upon our corporations. They have been able to raise new capital by stock issues at very low rates. They have been able to substitute stock for bonds and so to strengthen their capital structures and diminish the danger of receiverships in bad times. They also have been able to secure additional capital cheaply and safely and so to expand and cheapen their production, and thus to benefit the consumer.

Clearly these are substantial benefits conferred by the bull markets. When we consider them in relation to the critics who declared that the stock market had to be broken at any cost and the congressmen who would tax speculation out of existence, it is hard not to wonder whether the country is getting tired of prosperity. Has it become so used to the benefits of the extraordinary "prosperity without inflation" which it has enjoyed since the deflation of 1920-21 that it wishes to pick that prosperity apart?

If so, we will do well to remember that prosperity is a marginal affair and that meddling with the natural flow of economic events brings heavy penalties.—New York Sun.

Amusements

"STRANGE CARGO" COMES TO STATE

Packed from start to finish with tense drama, thrills and heart appeal, "Strange Cargo," Pathe's first all-talking picture, will be seen and heard at the State theater on Monday. The plot has to do with the mysterious slaying of the owner of a palatial pleasure yacht while on a voyage to the Azores. When last seen, the man is talking to his friends in a brilliantly illuminated salon. The lights go out suddenly, a groan is heard and when the lights are brought the man had vanished.

Every passenger is suspected and a searching investigation is made, in the course of which strange happenings occur. How the assassin is discovered makes one of the most amazing climaxes ever seen on the screen.

Notable stage and screen players are included in a practically all-star cast. Those featured are Lee Patrick, June Nash, George Barrand, Kyle Bellows, Frank Reicher and Josephine Brown.

The action is dramatic and swift-moving, while the dialogue and sound effects are novel and highly impressive.

"BEHIND CURTAIN" STORY OF ENIGMA

London streets under cover of a midnight fog; gay bazaar and Hindu hovels of Peshawar; the scenic splendor of the Persian desert; San Francisco's teeming Chinatown—these are among the backgrounds of the romantic mystery drama, "Behind That Curtain," a Fox Movietone all talking production which is scheduled to come to the Ceramic theater Monday.

The warning of London "bobbies" to late revelers; the squeal of camels on the desert and the barbaric songs of their drivers around the campfire; the character of Chinese playboys in San Francisco's Oriental quarter; East Indian patois in Peshawar's streets and the measured, level tones of cultured Englishmen—"Behind That Curtain," it is said, brings them all to the ears of picturegoers.

The story begins in London where Hilary Galt, a barrister who makes a specialty of conducting secret investigations, has been engaged by Sir George Mannerling to inquire into the past of a certain man.

On the evening which brings his investigations to a close, Galt is visited in his offices by John Beetham, played by Warner Baxter, an explorer of Far

RIVER FRONT SAND COMPANY BOOM CRASHES

None Injured in Accident Near Newell Bridge.

OPERATIONS GO ON

Derrick Boat Unloads Supplies Pending Machinery Repairs.

One of the large pieces of iron known as the "goose-neck" and the connecting pin supporting the three massive legs that bulwark the giant boom by which the large steam shovel is operated by the Eastern Ohio Sand and Supply Company on the river front near the Newell bridge, broke yesterday, wrecking the machinery.

At the time of the accident a truck was being loaded and the shovel fell on the rear of it. No one was injured.

While repairs are being made to the boom a derrick boat is unloading the barges of sand and gravel into the trucks at the wharf at the foot of Broadway. The steamer Dorothy brought the derrick boat here from Steubenville.

The readings at noon today at Dam No. 8 were 15.6 feet in the upper pool and 8.9 feet in the lower pool.

The steamer Queen City will arrive here tonight, enroute to Cincinnati from Pittsburgh. The General Wood will arrive here tomorrow afternoon from Charleston, W. Va., bound for Pittsburgh.

REV. G. F. HOFF IN PULPIT HERE

The Rev. Gilbert F. Hoff, of Oakland, Calif., formerly of East Liverpool, will preach tomorrow morning in the First Methodist Episcopal church. His subject will be "Thou Shall Call His Name Jesus."

Chorus of the Second Baptist church, East End, will give a program at the evening services, assisted by a quartet from Wellsville.

Epworth League members will hold a service at 7 o'clock in the City park near the Newell bridge in charge of Miss Rachel Boyce. The subject will be "Reading by the Campfire."

CHICAGO HEAT WAVE KILLS FIVE

CHICAGO, July 27.—(INS)—For the fifth consecutive day the middle west today was blanketed in a torrid wave that sent the mercury upward to the "90" mark.

Although several rain storms have broken in the lower Great Lakes region, the heat wave has remained. Five deaths in Chicago have been traced indirectly to the current warm weather.

DISMANTLING OF CHURCH HALTED TO GRATIFY WISH OF DEAD WOMAN

GREENWICH, O., July 27.—(INS)—That the wish of a dead woman might be gratified, plans for dismantling the Nineveh church of Greenwich, were temporarily halted here today.

Mrs. Susan Mead's greatest desire was to be buried from the church where she had long been a member.

While talking with members of her family about the razing of the church, she said, "I guess I'll have to hurry and die if I realize my ambition." A few minutes later she slumped down in her chair—dead.

Funeral services will be held in the church Sunday.

TODAY

If all the taxes had to be paid at the same time there wouldn't be enough money in the country to pay them.

BUT thanks to credit, deposits in the banks exceed sixty thousand million dollars.

ALVIN COOLIDGE, tanned, smiling, beaming with health, is enthusiastic about American prosperity. He well may be.

Money is made rapidly here. Three years ago an investing company was formed with $6,500,000. Now it issues $24,000,000 in six per cent preferred stock, and shows profits of over $40,000,000.

Never the less, don't gamble.

THAT advice is probably useless. The public agrees with the distinguished Mr. H. Baer, who says: "If we cannot get our faces on government money, the next best thing is to get your hands on it."

Too many believe that gambling is the best way to get your hands on it.

HALL, VODREY PASS BAR EXAM

Robert Edgar Hall, grandson of Mrs. E. J. McArthur, 1129 Ohio avenue, and William H. Vodrey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Vodrey, of Park boulevard, were among 405 applicants who passed the recent state bar examination, it was announced today by Seth H. Miller, clerk of the Ohio supreme court.

About 42 per cent, or 302 applicants, failed out of a total of 707.

The highest grade, 93.9 per cent, was received by Miss Selma Ruth Schwartz, East Cleveland.

The successful applicants will be sworn in by State Supreme Judge James E. Robinson, as practicing attorneys, as follows: Those living in northern Ohio, in the Auditorium, Cleveland, 1 p. m., August 5; those of central Ohio, in the state supreme court room, statehouse, Columbus, 1 p. m., August 6; those of southern Ohio, in the appellate court room, Cincinnati, 1 p. m., August 7.

"Cub" Eighth Wonder

Gets Opinions on Stockingless Girls When interviewed by International News Service the former fifth district representative was out on a tour of Manhattan's torrid pavements buttoling strangers and asking their opinion of girls going about sans hose.

Showing none of the temerity usual to a new reporter he was backing them up in corners and getting his information. While he talked a photographer who accompanies him on his jaunts was snapping the subject's pictures.

"No, I don't mind being rebuffed. There are some seven million persons here and if you keep hustling you're bound to find plenty that are willing to answer your questions," Upshaw said.

"No, I can't quite get accustomed to the bare legs, I'm still plenty old-fashioned and these newfangled things such as sun-back dresses are to me downright immodest, not to mention indecent."

When asked whether or not reporting was as "tough" as being a congressman his only reply was that "It's as bad as a day behind the plow."

Walks Into Beer Raid. Despite the fact that on his first day as a reporter he walked full into a beer raid, the ardent dry insists that the liquor problem in New York is vastly exaggerated.

"Why I've been here more than a week now and have yet to see a man or woman under the influence of liquor. Of course, I might be blind but all this—what, er is the word—"

Here this reporter supplied "whoop" to which he agreed with a smile.

"All this 'whoop' seems to be lacking."

Next week Reporter Upshaw will make a tour of the night clubs.

Wonder what the cub's "reaction" will be when greeted by "Tex" Guinan's cheery "Hello, sucker."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

By W. S. COUSINS,
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Nervousness over money supplies outweighed business and trade reports today and the effect of favorable week-end traces of Friday's selling wave were to be seen in early trading on the big board.

American Tel and Tel, Westinghouse and other aristocrats of the speculative list dropped to lower price levels, with losses of 2 to 4 points in the first period. U. S. Steel, American Can, Bethlehem Steel sold off a point or two, but nothing more than a normal week-end reaction. Railroad stocks made a better showing, with Baltimore and Ohio, Atchafson and other favorites pushing upward a point or two.

On the whole, the week-end business reports told of unusual activity in important lines, including steel, manufacturing, which speaks for all industries using finished steel in any great quantity. Trade has slackened in many quarters, but "sales" have helped to keep goods moving. Railroad car loadings are keeping up the fine record set early in the month.

Cleveland Livestock.

CLEVELAND, July 27.—Hogs—Receipts 600 head; holdover 286 head; market around 10 to 15c lower than Friday's average. Quotations: 250-350 lbs., $10.50 to $11.85; 200-250 lbs., $11.75 to $12.40; 160-200 lbs., $12.25 to $12.60; 130-160 lbs., $12.25 to $12.60; 90-130 lbs., $12.25 to $12.60; packing sows, $9.65 to $10.10.

Cattle—Receipts 100 head; calves, 100 head; market at standstill, around 10 loads common steers and deck vealers being held for Monday.

Sheep—Receipts 150 head; market nothing done; run held for Monday.

Pittsburgh Livestock.

PITTSBURGH, July 27.—Hogs—Slow around 25c lower than Friday's market. Butchers, $12 to $12.25; bulk, 220 lbs., down, including pigs, $12.65 to $12.75; packing sows, $10 to $10.25.

Cattle—No early trading. Calves—Steady, medium vealers, $13 to $15; choice quotable up to $17.50.

Sheep—Slow, steady to weak. Asking $14 for best lambs, few sales, $12 to $13.50.

COUNTY PLANS TAX LEAGUE

Steps are Taken to Support Proposed Amendment.

Initial steps toward perfecting a county branch of the All-Ohio Tax league in support of the proposed state tax amendment were taken at a meeting of the movement's backers last night in common pleas court room No. 1, Lisbon.

Robert Patterson, Lisbon, presided. C. M. Brownfield, West Point, acted as secretary.

Talks were made by C. A. Pontius, Canton; J. J. Purinton, East Liverpool; State Representative W. H. Van Fossan, Lisbon, and County Auditor Elmer Walker.

The amendment in question proposes changes in sections two and three of Article 12 of the state constitution to provide for a more flexible system of taxation.

According to Pontius, the amendment would "put an end to double taxation, give home rule on taxes, limit taxes on homes, land and buildings, enable Ohio farms and industries to compete advantageously with those of other states and allow Ohio money to be used honestly in this state."

PARIS CABINET OF POINCARÉ QUITS OFFICE

French Premier Resigns Because of Ill Health.

CALL FOR BRIAND

President Doumergue is Expected to Act Today.

PARIS, July 27.—Falling in its attempt to induce Premier Raymond Poincaré to reconsider his decision to quit his office because of illness and the necessity of undergoing a serious operation, the French cabinet offered its resignation to President Gaston Doumergue today.

This action had been expected as the only logical solution to the complicated situation brought about by M. Poincaré's resignation. President Doumergue will now call upon one of the retiring ministers to form a new government, and it is confidently expected that M. Aristide Briand, minister of foreign affairs in the Poincaré cabinet, will be entrusted with the task.

The cabinet's decision to resign was reached after M. Briand and M. Louis Barthou, minister of justice, had called on M. Poincaré at his home and asked him to remain in office even though the state of his health prohibited active participation in administrative duties.

As Poincaré persisted in his decision in spite of the entreaties of his colleagues was transmitted to the cabinet members at a council of ministers held at the Elysee palace, residence of the president.

RAIN FORECAST FOR NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(INS)—Weather outlook for the period July 29 to August 3, inclusive:

Ohio Valley: Showers at the beginning of the week and again Thursday or Friday; otherwise mostly fair. Cooler Monday, temperature normal or slightly below Tuesday and Wednesday, warmer Thursday and cooler about Saturday.

Fliers Up 339 Hours

rest O'Brien had been living at their address for 336 hours. They had added more than 89 hours to the old world-endurance record set by the "Angeleno" at Culver City, California.

Reporters, cameramen Sleepy. The endurance qualities however are not limited to the fliers alone as their eternal airship slips and turns lazily over the local airport. Sleepy reporters and weary cameramen, waiting hour after hour in the hot dusty press tent to start the flash which will tell the world that this important "sparrow" has fallen or to record in sound and picture the landing, made bets with one another on how many more hours they, the groundlings, will last.

Meanwhile the two pilots, Jackson and O'Brien, continue their apparently serene existence among the stars and clouds and show not the slightest inclination to come "back to earth."

"Red" Jackson messaged his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson, who flew from Fairbairn, Minn., to see their son. "Everything is fine but you will have to wait a long time to see us."

Earning $116 An Hour. Statisticians who have figured it out that Jackson and O'Brien are richer by $116 for every hour clicked off by their tireless air taxi, can well understand in part at least the reluctance of the two pilots to descend.

Proudly Facing the World

Warner Baxter and Lois Moran in "Behind That Curtain" Fox Movietone All-Talking Feature

London streets under cover of a midnight fog; gay bazaars and Hindu hovels of Peshawar; the scenic splendor of the Persian desert; San Francisco's teeming Chinatown—these are among the backgrounds of the romantic mystery drama, "Behind That Curtain," a Fox Movietone all talking production which is scheduled to come to the Ceramic theater, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The warning of London "bobbies" to late revelers; the squeal of camels on the desert and the barbaric songs of their drivers around the campfire; the chatter of Chinese playboys in San Francisco's Oriental quarter; East Indian patois in Peshawar's streets and the measured, level tones of cultured Englishmen—"Behind That Curtain," it is said, brings them all to the ears of picturegoers.

MASQUERADING AS POLICEMAN, BANDIT GETS $1,000 AND AUTO

CLEVELAND, July 27.—(INS)—A bandit, masquerading as a policeman, today held up and robbed Frank Cos, a confectionery owner, of more than $1,000 in cash and his automobile shortly after Cos had withdrawn the money from the bank.

Approaching Cos as he left the bank, the bandit displayed a policeman's badge and ordered Cos to drive to the police station "for questioning."

While supposedly enroute to the police station, the bandit ordered Cos to pull over to the curb. Covering his victim with a gun, the robber forced Cos to hand over the money he had withdrawn from the bank, then ordered him out of the car and drove away.

DEATH ROLL

Miss Emma Niona Sterling.

Funeral services for Miss Emma Niona Sterling, 58, who died yesterday, will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Miller funeral home, West Sixth street, in charge of the Rev. J. F. Dimit, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Miss Sterling, who had lived here for 30 years, was a member of the Methodist church.

She leaves one sister, Mrs. Frank Pilgrim.

45-TON TANK KILLS WORKER

Another Man Badly Injured in Dayton Plant Crash.

DAYTON, O., July 27.—(INS)—One man was killed and another was seriously injured when an air compressing tank, weighing 45-tons, fell at the plant of the Inland Manufacturing company here today and trapped the two men beneath it.

Shelley Broyles, 33, an employe at the plant, was crushed to death.

John Tobias, 43, another worker, was badly injured when he was caught beneath the debris. He was rescued and rushed to a hospital where physicians said he had a chance for recovery.

LEGION SCOUT TROOP ON HIKE

Plans for a hike today were made at a meeting last night of Troop No. 42, Boy Scouts of the American Legion, in the post rooms, Dresden avenue. Donald Peole, assistant scoutmaster, is in charge of the hikers.

Scoutmaster Earl Mosher conducted preliminary work for the second class test.

The patrols will meet Friday night.

Arthur Nutt, of Buffalo, the gift engineer of the company sponsoring the present flight, is so confident the plane will be in the air another week that he had made preparations to return to the east over the weekend and come back to St. Louis next week for the landing.

Because of a complaint from the "St. Louis Robin" pilots that they nearly crashed with a plane carrying cameramen the field manager has ordered that any plane carrying a cameraman shall be grounded for the remainder of the flight.

Champions Invited to Air Meet

(CLEVELAND, July 27.—(INS)—Dale ("Red") Jackson and Forrest O'Brien, long distance endurance fliers of St. Louis, who started on their third week in the air today, will be guests at the 1929 national air races here August 24—if they come down to earth by that time, according to an announcement made at the air race headquarters here today.

In addition the "St. Louis Robin," the sturdy monoplane which has carried the doughty endurance fliers to a record well beyond the 300-hour mark, will be placed on exhibition for ten days, if the Jackson-O'Brien record has not been beaten by the time of the air races, it was said.

BOMB BLAST WRECKS HANGAR

Neighborhood Opposition Blamed for Cleveland Explosion.

CLEVELAND, July 27.—(INS)—A bomb explosion early today wrecked a portion of a dirigible hangar under construction on the West Side here by Oscar Laisy. Scores of neighboring houses were shaken to their foundations and windows for blocks around were shattered by the blast.

The explosion, police believe, was instigated by neighborhood opposition to the construction of the hangar in the district. It was reported that several persons in the neighborhood had been aroused against its erection because of its "unsightliness."

Homes nearby the bombed hangar suffered heavy damage in broken windows and cracked plaster.

Detective Arthur Burroughs, who investigated the bombing, said he had found a fuse which indicated that the bomb had been loaded with dynamite.

The explosion is the second disaster for the construction of a dirigible hangar in the last year. Previously a structure which he had near completion was burned to the ground. Police laid the burning to neighborhood opposition to the hangar.

Laisy had planned to build a collapsible dirigible in the hangar, after which the structure was to be converted into a six-suite apartment.

Convulsions Fatal to Columbus Man. COLUMBUS, O., July 27.—(INS)—An attack of convulsions was fatal here today to Frank Warner, 44, at a local hospital.

He was taken to the hospital by police.

Calls A's Greatest Ball Club

Gleason, Who's Seen 'em All, Says Macks are Best.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—The Athletics have the greatest ball club that ever stepped on a big league diamond! That is the fervid declaration of a man who has seen them all, from the pugnacious days of the old Baltimore Orioles, the first really great team, down to the present. The man is that gruff and honest grand old veteran known fondly the country over as Bill Gleason.

In his day Gleason was one of the smartest players the game has ever known. His rare courage on the pitching knoll and later as a second baseman remains one of the fine legends of the game. Today, as everyone knows, he is coach of the team he boasts so highly.

But the compliment Gleason pays the band that is making a romp out of this year's pennant race, that has shoved the mighty New York Yankees down among the peasantries of the also-rans, is an honest, fair, unbiased one.

For Coach Gleason, regardless of his connection with the club he has helped so greatly, would be the last man in the world to pay it homage undeserved, to render tribute where none was due. For in Gleason's mind there is nothing of the type that pays compliments merely for the hollow sake of saying something nice.

Greatest of Them All.

"This is the greatest ball club that ever made a spike mark on a diamond," Gleason ejaculated as he chewed habitually on the end of a perfect that he rarely lights.

"I've seen them all," he waved dismissively, "but I never saw a club like this one. I tell you IT'S GREAT!"

"This team has everything. It doesn't lack a thing anywhere. I don't care what team you name, you can go back as far as you please, but you can't name me a ball club this one couldn't lick."

Gleason, as we have mentioned before, has seen all the great clubs in history of big league baseball. Speaking in the vernacular, he knows his berrandas.

He played with Ned Hanlon's famous old Orioles in the day of "Eeyah" Hughes, Jennings, John, then known to his discomfort as "Maggie" McGray, Wilbert Robinson, "Wee Willie" Keeler, originator of the phrase, "hit 'em where they ain't," and a host of other noted stars too numerous to mention.

Gleason saw the old Chicago Cubs, the team with the famous double-play combination, "Tinker to Evers to Chance," in the days of their great success. He saw, too, the team that ended the regime of the Cubs, Connie Mack's great Athletics that boasted the $100,000 infield.

Heretofore Bill Gleason has always maintained that the greatest team in the history of baseball was the sorry White Sox that sold their reputations for a mess of pottage and exposed were driven out of baseball.

The crookedness of those few players that "threw" the 1919 world's series almost killed Bill Gleason, whose rugged honest mind never dreamed the ballplayers lived who could sink so low. Gleason's health was undermined by that blow. It put him out of baseball for a number of years.

"Those fellows," he said "almost ruined me, but what ballplayers they were. I never thought I'd see another team like it, but here it is—the Athletics."

"We have the greatest left-hander in the game in Mose Grove and we have the next one to him in Rube Walberg. I never thought I'd see a centerfielder as good as 'Hap' Felsch, but Mule Haas beats him."

"We have the greatest outfielder in baseball in Al Simmons. Name me a left-hander, go back as far as you want, that could field, hit, run and throw with Simmons."

"This team will win the pennant hands down and I don't care who we play in the world's series, we'll lick them no matter who they are."

GOODMAN, STRUB BATLE TO DRAW

CLEVELAND, July 27.—Things remained undecided today as to who is the "better man," Joey Goodman of Cleveland or Maxie Strub of Erie.

The two fighters fought to a draw last night in an eight-round battle which topped the Taylor bowl fight card. Goodman carried the fight in the first three rounds of the bout, landing his Erie opponent on the canvas once with a hefty left. Strub came back, however, in the remaining five rounds to even things up and bring the match to a draw.

Johnny Datto, featherweight, chalked up his fourth consecutive knockout last night in the semi-finals when he won a technical knockout over Johnny Helstein of Erie after two minutes of the first round.

DISTRICT POLO TITLE AT STAKE

CLEVELAND, July 27.—With district honors at stake, the Chagrin Valley Hunt club was scheduled to play the Carranor Hunt and Polo club of Toledo here this afternoon in the final contest of a tournament in this section of the central circuit.

The victors of today's match will represent the district in the central championships at Chicago, starting August 5.

David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy, who arrived here late yesterday by plane from Washington, will play at No. 2 in a new combination which was made necessary because of an injury Tuesday to J. A. Wigmore. Russell Firestone will take Wigmore's place at No. 1 in the lineup, while Ingalls will fill in for Firestone's post.

New Home Run Mark Expected

Combined Output of Two Leagues Reaches 904.

By Lee Conklin.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The bull's movement in home runs on the major league market had boosted the output of both leagues past the 900 milestone this morning, the nine homers made yesterday bringing the season's total to 904.

Despite the recently promulgated orders which permit National league pitchers to ruin the shiny complexion of a new ball before trying to throw it past opposing batsmen, the home-run hitters are amassing a record which may stand for all time—or until such time as the craze for long-distance hitting moves horsehide manufacturers to spring a gutta percha ball on the boys.

The 1925 record of 1,167 homers is as certain to be shattered as a May and December romance. For since last April the circuit clouters have been pummeling the pellet at the rate of 1,500 for the season.

Yesterday's home-run hitters included Chuck Klein, the National league leader, who contributed No. 31; Lou Gehrig, pace-setter in the American league derby, who weighed in with his 24th; and Bill Dickey, member of the Yankees' freshman class, who qualified as a full-fledged member of murderers' row by clouting a pair of four-baggers.

Klein's homer, made with the bases full, helped the Phillies pile up a seven-run lead over the Cubs, but the league leaders retaliated with five runs in the third and six more in the fourth, eventually winning by a 13 to 10 count. Nine pitchers were battered from pillar to post.

The Pirates also rallied gamely in late innings to nose out Boston, 9 to 8, a single by Finch Hitter Brame sending in the winning run. Paul Warner and George Grantham of the Cubs collided in chasing a fly, but were not hurt seriously.

While Manager McGraw was touring the sticks in frenzied search for new, bigger and better specimens of ivory, his Giants dropped their fifth straight, losing to the Cardinals, 4 to 3. Douthitt's double gave Clarence Mitchell the edge over Denver Bill Walker.

Cardinals made it a clean sweep for the west when Jake May subdued the Brooklynns, 4 to 1.

Howard Ehmke, Connie Mack's once-in-a-while hurler, yielded only four hits in pitching the A's to a 3 to 1 win over Lyons of the White Sox. The Yankees knocked out Sam Gray and gave Dead Pan Eddie Wells a big lead to coast on, but Wells bore down all the way and blanked the Browns, 9 to 0.

Walter Miller, Cleveland star, again demonstrated that the Senators can't hit southpaws by beating them 4 to 2. A homer and a double by Harry Heilmann helped Owen Carroll of the Tigers flatten the Red Sox, 4 to 1.

PIRATES TO PLAY IN YOUNGSTOWN

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 27.—The Pittsburgh Pirates, with virtually all of the regulars in the lineup, will clash with the Oakland club of Youngstown tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The game is scheduled for 3 o'clock.

The Oakland's boast one of the strongest semi-pro clubs in eastern Ohio.

BUCS NOSE OUT RED SOX, 9 TO 8

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 27.—Pittsburgh defeated Boston, 9 to 8, here yesterday in a hectic game marked by rally of both teams in the final inning, and a collision between Paul Wane and George Grantham while after a fly in short right field in the eighth that put both performers out of the game.

Although doctors said neither was seriously hurt, Wane may be laid up several days and that Grantham might not be able to play today.

Clarke, a Pirate recruit, pounded out a homer that tied the score. Grantham hit into the right field stands with the bases full in the seventh. A single by Finch Hitter Brame, scoring Flagstead, won the game.

Hands Unseen

New Mystery Story of "Gray Phantom," Lovable Outlaw.

By Herman Landon

Copyright by Street and Smith Corporation.

He spoke with a brazen cynicism that made Culligore regard him with a loathing. "He gives me the creeps," he said with a shrug. Then he turned to Vanardy with a puzzled expression. "But there is no such hall as the one where you say you left William."

Vanardy smiled indulgently. "There is, and it is almost directly beneath this room, two floors down, as I discovered yesterday morning. If you hadn't been so determined to regard me as a liar, you might have made a more careful search for the door leading into it. It is hard to find, I admit, but it's there. Craig, in all the years he lived here, never found it, but then he had no occasion to look for it. The hall connects with a very small room, the one in which Miss Hardwick was kept. One would have to make very careful measurements to discover that such a room exists. This is a big house and laid out along generous lines, and a few feet more or less do not matter much in the total footage. The room I speak of has two concealed doors, one leading into the main corridor and the other opening out on the porch in the back." He gave Culligore a faintly teasing glance. "It was through that room I escaped yesterday morning while you were pounding on the door."

Culligore regarded him blankly. "But how in blue heavens did you get from this room to the one two floors below?"

"By the same route Hollister traveled on his visits to and from this room. He was kind enough to tell me that this room was once used by Parson Jim and his associates as a laboratory. Parson Jim spent a great deal of time and gray matter arranging an emergency exit, and the result was a work of genius, simple and yet effective. The key to the whole contrivance was hidden in a place where nobody would ever think of looking for it. Let me show you something."

While Hollister watched them with a grimly resigned air, he led Culligore to the door and pointed to the little fissure beneath the jamb to which he had previously called Bell's attention. Culligore looked, then glanced up with a puzzled expression.

"All I see is a tiny crack about big enough for a small bug to crawl through."

"Or to slip a small coin into," Vanardy suggested.

The lieutenant shook his head. "Too much for me."

Vanardy smiled at his bewilderment. "This little crack you see governs the whole contrivance. It looks so innocent that nobody would look at it twice. Since it is located inside the room, it cannot be manipulated by a person on the outside unless the door is opened. That explains the knocking. While the person in the room held the door open and looked out in the hall, which was darkened on purpose each time, the one outside lay flat against the wall and reached around the jamb to the crack. Then, as soon as the door was closed, he ran down two flights of stairs and entered the little room I mentioned by the blind door which you refused to look for yesterday."

Again Culligore shook his head in stark bewilderment. "Kidding me?" he demanded.

"No, and to make things clear, I'll give you a demonstration. Please search Hollister's pockets. I think you will find a number of small Chinese coins with a hole in the center. I had one yesterday morning, but it has disappeared."

Still shaking his head, the lieutenant stepped toward the handcuffed prisoner and began to go through his pockets.

"Try the vest pocket," said Hollister. "You will find several, but one is all you need. It was careless of me to lose one of them during our tussle night before last, Vanardy."

With a coin in his hand, the lieutenant rejoined Vanardy at the door.

Vanardy took the little brass piece. "As I said a while ago, it is almost as simple as walking through a turnstile. All you need is a coin, but it has to be the right size and weight. I suppose that's why Parson Jim chose this particular kind. Now watch!"

He dropped the coin in the little fissure, then led Culligore away from the door.

"Sit down," he said. "No, take this chair, the one Bell sat in the night of the murder. That's right. Now imagine that you have just opened the door in response to a mysterious knock, and you are still wondering what it means. You will notice that the adjusted shade of the lamp permits only a narrow space on the floor to be illuminated. The fire happens to be completely out, but it would make no difference if it was still smoldering, as it was each time our mysterious visitor entered. Anyhow, you are not thinking of those details. You are still wondering what the knocking meant. Now look to your right."

Culligore did, and a sharp exclamation escaped him. The stone slab in front of the fireplace had swung from a horizontal to a perpendicular position, leaving on each side an aperture big enough to admit a man of medium size. Even as Culligore looked at it, it swung back into place and lay in its normal position.

"Parson Jim's emergency exit," explained Vanardy, while Hollister, standing with his back to the wall, gave a chuckle of pride and derision. "As you noticed, it closes of its own momentum. Its thickness and weight give it such a solid appearance that no amount of testing can reveal the hollow space beneath. Coming up through the opening, it is easy for an intruder to slip around the chair you are occupying and lose himself in the shadows at the opposite wall."

"The contrivance is governed by a very delicate system of balances which is set in motion when a coin of the right size and weight is dropped into the fissure itself. Now you see how the murderer entered and left the room, and how I gave you the slip yesterday morning."

Culligore drew a long breath. "Let's get out of here," he said hurriedly. "Hollister may have another cute trick up his sleeve."

A short, gleeful laugh escaped the prisoner.

"I'll have to trouble him for another of those coins," remarked Vanardy stepping up to Hollister and taking a brass piece from his pocket. He dropped it into the crack, and in a few moments the slab swung noiselessly into upright position.

"You lead the way," directed Culligore, picking up his pistol from the table. "You next, Hollister. I'll follow, and don't you try any tricks."

The little procession started down a long, steep flight of narrow stairs, the slab swinging back into place over Culligore's head. As Vanardy reached the bottom, he struck a match and located a light switch. They were in a very small room, simply furnished and apparently having only one door and not a single window.

"This is where the hounds kept Miss Hardwick," Vanardy explained. "That door," pointing, leads into the little hall where I left William. At the other end of it is the exit leading into the main corridor—the exit you declared didn't exist, Culligore. Here, pointing in the opposite direction, "is the way to the back porch, though you would have some trouble locating it from the outside."

The lieutenant glanced curiously about him. "No wonder Parson Jim was never caught," he mumbled. "All he had to do in case of a raid was to step down here and wait till the smoke blew away. There's just one thing I don't get, Vanardy. You said a while ago, when we were in the library, that the murderer was somebody in the house. You were kidding us, weren't you?"

Vanardy smiled. "That was just a sop to your curiosity. And I didn't use exactly those words. I said the murders were committed by some one who was at present in this house. Maybe you noticed I looked up and listened before I spoke. The library faces the back porch, as you know. I rather expected a visit from Hollister after our talk earlier in the evening, and he had to pass through this room and out into the main corridor in order to reach the stairs and ascend to the blue room. I suppose he waited down here until he thought the time was right for paying me a visit. Then he merely went up and knocked on the door. When I opened it, he dropped the coin in the crack. As you noticed, a few moments elapsed after the dropping of the coin until the mechanism works, and if he hurried he had ample time to run down here and reach the top of that narrow stairway by the time the slab swung back."

NEW BUICK HERE IN 14 MODELS

Greater Power, Longer
Wheelbases, Among Surprises.

Offering advancements that exceed every prediction made for it, the 1930 Buick line of 14 new motor cars was presented to the public today. Greater power, longer wheelbases, lower, longer and more beautifully attractive bodies and innumerable mechanical improvements and refinements are among the many surprises that await the interested motorist who visits the Buick show room.

The 1930 Buick will be offered in 14 models divided in three series known as the 40, 50 and 60 series. Series 40 embraces six models; series 50, two models and series 60, six models.

Additional power has been built into the Buick by increasing the bore one-eighth inch on all models, producing in the famous over-head Buick six engine an eight per cent increase in power.

All models have an actual speed in excess of 75 miles an hour.

In addition to the longer wheelbase, all models have been lowered approximately two inches giving long, low graceful lines that are eloquent of the surging power that has been built into the big over-head valve engines.

While retaining the Buick individuality of appearance, the lines and contours of the body have been refined to such an extent that the 1930 Buick is a distinctive creation. The radiator shape has been revised to give it a long racy appearance. The margin of the radiator shell has been reduced to more slender dimensions and the radiator core has been protected with thermostatically controlled shutters. An attractive moulding enhances the beauty of the car.

The nose of the front fenders has been dropped closer to the tires; impressive new designs have been embodied in the large chromium-plated head and tail lamps and the head lamps have been mounted on much sturdier chromium-plated support posts. New hub caps, larger brake drums, stocky wooden wheel-spokes and large section balloon tires give this new Buick a wonderfully pleasing appearance that is further enhanced by a wider frame and the use of a metal gas tank cover which gives the rear a smooth finished appearance.

SOUGHT FOR ISSUING WORTHLESS CHECK FOR $3, MAN KILLS SELF

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 27.—(INS)—Life seemed to offer no loophole for Dewey H. Keller, 24, a mechanic in a local garage.

His landlord threatened to throw him out because of nonpayment of rent.

His bride of a few weeks had deserted him, and, according to neighbors, they had seemed so happy for awhile.

His furniture was about to be seized.

Friends had told him there was a warrant for his arrest on a worthless check charge.

He spied two constables approaching and he dashed into a friend's automobile and sped away with the officers in pursuit.

The policemen overtook him in a small grove in the western part of the city.

But, the heavy hand of death had been there first. Keller shot and killed himself.

The worthless check was for three dollars.

CONSIDER THE DELIVERED PRICE

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobiles. Buick values are delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

In addition to the outstanding advantages of ninety-degree V-type eight-cylinder performance, the new Viking offers distinguished style and luxurious riding qualities.

Its distinctive smartness has been achieved through tailored lines and beautiful proportions. Low-slung and graceful, with sweeping full-crown fenders, attractive hood, and handsome body contours, the Viking is at once fleet in appearance and dignified in character.

Then there is the matter of environment. The niceties of Viking interior decoration make you feel as much at home as you would in your own living room. The upholstery materials are rich in quality and pleasing in shade and pattern. Hardware and all interior appointments have been selected with the utmost care.

The balanced weight, long wheelbase, and low center of gravity of the Viking chassis result in marvelous roadability. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers smooth out all road irregularities. Contributing still further to this restful riding comfort are the smoothness, quietness, and perfection of performance of the ninety-degree V-type eight-cylinder engine. It develops 81 horsepower in an even, effortless flow. It delivers greater speed than the average motorist requires. And its response to the throttle is remarkable, both in getaway from a standing start and in acceleration at the higher speeds.

The Viking engine is exceptionally simple, rigid, compact, and accessible. The horizontal valve mechanism is entirely new in design and is more accessible than in the conventional automobile engine. Fuel distribution through a down-draft manifold system contributes materially to the brilliance of Viking performance. Thermomatically controlled radiator shutters are standard equipment.

Don't fail to come and see and examine the new Viking soon. When you are familiar with all its details—when you have enjoyed its brilliant V-eight performance—when you have matched it against other cars in its field—you will pronounce it a great car, and the outstanding automobile value to be had at medium price.

OLDSMOBILE SIX

—the Fine Car of Low Price—continues to win ever greater success throughout the nation.
